

Dear Parents,

Greetings ! We have seen the various messages and looked at tweets from KHDA with regard to the likelihood of inclement weather today. Since we are being inspected this week, we shall remain open but we respect the individual decision of every parent with regard to your child's attendance today depending on your own residence and any potential difficulties that might arise given the weather warnings. We thank you for your understanding and shall leave it to every parent to decide on their child's attendance.

Thank you.
